JIM'S CORNER

As I write this article, we seem to be having an early spring. Temperatures are actually pretty nice considering, but we have had a lot of rain making things soft at the field, that means muddy!

Some die hard flyers have been flying, but the softies, like me, are waiting for warmer weather. I did get my truck out of storage already in anticipation of getting some flying in soon.

This month's meeting is a week early, Sunday, April 13th, due to Easter falling on our normal meeting date. I am not aware of anything significant to be discussed at this meeting, but who knows what might be brought up by someone.

I mentioned this last month, but be sure to check how old your transmitter battery is. We all think about the receiver battery because it is what is powering our plane, but we seem to forget about the transmitter.

A replaced battery is cheaper than replacing a plane.

The compost site opens Wednesday, April 2nd. All the work spots are filled. It is your responsibility to find your replacement if you can't make it. Trade with someone if you have to. Also, let's be looking into the trailers and truck beds to insure that lumber, doors, stumps, and other trash is not be snuck into the site and dumped into the brush pile.

That's also the reason the Village has moved the brush pile so people can't go behind it and dump off their items that are not accepted.

I'm looking forward to a great, upcoming flying season, as I'm sure you are also, so get your equipment ready.

Fly Safe and Have Fun

Dennys Stuff

Well now. What with the high winds, rain and other obstacles, your editor only got a single day of three flights on this model so far this year.

The maiden flight on the J3 Piper Cub took place on March 18, 2025. Everything went very well. The Cub lifted off the ground in around 15 or 20 feet. It only needed a few clicks of elevator and aileron adjustments.

Zeroing in on the Spektrum 8360T receiver's Gyro function was easy. The first flight was made with the Gyro function turned off. The trims were set-up, and the model was landed.

The "Forward Programming" on the Spektrum nX10 transmitter was accessed, and the Gyro features was located. One command is to reset the Gyro to match the new trim settings. And, that's done!

No extra gyro wiring, just the regular servo connections to the receiver. The AS3X Gyro features are entirely contained inside the Spektrum 8360T receiver.

This model is going to get a lot of flying time for the 84 year old fingers of its pilot!

Roger, our club's VP has been rather busy with his 3D printer. Roger showed off his new 3D printed case for the ON-OFF and Reversing switch used for the fuel pumps on the gasoline containers used on those gasser models.

And, making a second one is just a key punch away for the extra unit that Roger made for Hoss.

Nice work!

This is a 10 foot wingspan Piper cub your editor built over a 3 month period in 1999.. Power was an Astroflight geared 90 motor, and 36 SubC Nicad cells! It flew well, and it was flown at an all electric funfly in Allentown PA the following year.

Bad news, after I had landed the model, some SOB landed after me, and took the tail off of the Cub, ending flying that day. The SOB's spotter was too busy talking to his friends.

A month of work, and it was back together again. It got sold in 2004.

Updates on MicroSoft Desktop Publisher.

I've been looking for an alternative to MS Publisher, but haven't found much. I did find one called Affinity Publisher, will have to watch some youtube videos on it.

Adobie has something, but that is for commercial use, where the subscription is several hundred dollars a month.

MicroSofts solution is to simply use their MS Word software. I've tried using Word, but Word isn't publishing software, and what is easy to do in MS Desktop Publishing can't be done at all in MS Word.

I've also tried to buy a copy of Desktop Publishing 2021, but no one seems to have any. FYI, I'm currently using MicroSoft Office 365, a $95/year subscription program. This is the subscription program where MicroSoft is dropping its Desktop Publishing program.

There are a few websites selling MS Desktop publisher, but I suspect their reviews are all scams.

At any rate, I've got a year and a half to figure it all out.
